MUS 110CL
Spotify Directions

In this course, you will be listening to various artists from many different genres for each musical period. For each module (except Module 1) a playlist has been created by using Spotify. In order to access the playlists, you will need to install Spotify on your computer. Follow the directions below to get started.

Go to http://www.spotify.com and follow the on-screen directions for software installation specific for your system.

Please note that if you sign in through Facebook it will post to Facebook the playlists you listen to.

For each module, a link is provided to click to access the playlist (this appears on multiple module pages, along with the module study guide). When you click the link, the following will open in your web browser. To open the playlist for listening, click the play button in the middle of the album collage.

After clicking the play button, the following warning message will appear. This appears because the playlist will launch in Spotify (which you downloaded on your computer). Click ‘Allow’ to continue.

If you are not logged into Spotify, you will be prompted to log in.
The playlist will appear in your Spotify screen as shown below. Click each song title to listen to the track.

It is suggested that you keep playlist open as you go through the module (and the reading) so that you can access each song quickly as you are prompted to listen throughout the module.

Please note that the free version shows advertisements not controlled by the university. To remove the ads, you can purchase access to Spotify; however, this is not required for this course.

If you prefer, you can legally acquire this music by using iTunes, Zune, or any other legitimate music source.
